As great events may from little causes would doubtless be allowed. We certainly spring, we make no excuse for referring to regarded it as a case for a re-hearing; the case of a humble Chinese workman, but of what use is a re-hearing which seems to us to involve serious quest to an uneducated Chinamau, unless tions of principle. We refer to the prosecu" he has the assistance of a solicitor? in the employ of the Daily Press office who has this week been fined $50 with the alternative of two months' imprisonment for leaving his previous employment without proper notice. It is easy to conceive of circumstances under which the imposition of such a penalty would be fully justified, but in the present case we think the man was unjustly treated from beginning to end, and we sincerely hope the case may be an isolated rather than a typical one. The man was in the first place arrested without a vestige of legal sanction, and by what we at present regard as a most improper subterfuge. A Chinese detective sergeant of police entered our office without permission, found his man, and asked the manager if the man might accompany him to the police station "to answer some inquiries." mission was, of course, readily given and the man went away with the police officer, not suspecting for a moment that he was being arrested. There was to our knowledge no mention of arrest or apprehension. As he was absent much longer than seemed quents, not to penalise scapegoats. necessary, inquiry was made by telephone and the information was elicited that the man was detained in custody on a charge of leaving his previous employment without proper notice. Though, as the reader is aware, to leave employment without notice is a criminal charge in Hongkong, yet the arrest of the man in this way was an outrage not sanctioned by the law of 1902 relating to Employers and Servants under which this charge was brought. Section 15 reads: -" If it be made to appear to a magistrate that there is good ground for believing that any party against whom a complaint has been made under this Ordinance, has absconded or is about to physicond, such magistrate may issue a warrant to apprehen I such party and detain him in custod? until the hearing of such complaint, unless such party shall give security to the satisfaction of such magistrate for his appearance to answer

such compla nt."

In the present case there was no "good ground" for believing that the man against whom complaint was made was about to abscond—there was not the slightest reason to fear it for a moment, and we understand that no warrant wes issued for his arrest and detention. He was taken into custody in flagrant disregard of the plain provisions of the statute. This, to begin with, suggests a question of grave principle, and we fancy that most Englishmen who realise the importance the liberty of the subject, the birth-right of every British subject, will share our uneas iness until some official enquiry results in the admission and censure of the irregularity, or throws upon it some extenuatory light. There was another informality, at the trial, when a person, not the presecutor, and not a solicitor, was permitted to address the Bench in application for a severe

As to the trial itself it is impossible to regard it as satisfactory, and we feel sure that had the man's defence been properly put before the magistrate, his Worship Selection from "The Gondollers"...... Sull van would have taken a far more lenient view of the case than he did. The prisoner was, of course, asked to plead whether he was "guilty" or "not guilty"; and he pleaded that he hal given twenty days' notice; but as it was not the full month's notice demanded by the law the plea was taken as one of "guilty" and that ended the prisoner's part in the proceedings. The prosecutor, an Englishman, then told the Court his story in a WINE AND SPIRIT MERCHANTS, language very imperfectly understood by the prisoner, and as it does not appear to have been the business of the Court interpreter to tell the prisoner what was being alleged against him by an English witness, there was no cross-examination. and no forther opportunity for the prisoner to say anything in extenuation of his offence or in mitigation of the penalty. Had he' been wealthy enough to have engaged a Correspondents must forward their names and ad- solicitor to assist him in presenting a defence, the Magistrate's decision would in All letters for publication should be written on all probability have been very different No anonymously signed communications that have from what it was, for, according to the man's own story, which he claims could be Telegraphic Address: Press: Codes: A.B.C.5th Ed. have a fairly strong defence, and had it been placed before the Court, we ca hardly conceive that the maximum fine of $50 would have been imposed on a main the wife of Thos. In default of paying such a (to him) large sum, the defendant who, at the worst, was guilty of only a technical breach of the Ordinance, bas to endure for two months the treatment of reaf criminal. It may, of course, be retorted that if injustice has been done a re-hearing tion, or persecution, of a Chinese pressman To a man who earns but $22 a month, the valuable and indispensable assistance of a solicitor is as unattainable as the moon; and so he goes his way, smarting under a penalty which would probably have been reduced to more just proportions had he been able to have his case properly presented. That conclusion is irresistible, and it is one which carries with it the conclusion that a man in the dock is liable to suffer as much for his ignorance and poverty as for his crime. As employers of Chinese labour, we are the least likely to encourage Chinese servatits to breaches of an Ordinance designed to protect employers; but no considerations of the Chinese, ignoring the fact that they also self-interest can sbut our eves to apparent injustice." This poor Chinaman was informally arrested, in contravention of the Ordinance; and, irrespective of the whole mologues spell it), a place to the west of the circumstances and merits of his particular case, was punished to the maximum extent as a warning." EXTRADITION OF ARMED ROBBERS WANTED.

Before Mr. G. N. Orme at the Police Court yesterday afternoon, Mr. Hursthouse (of the Crown Solicitor's office) on behalf of the Chinese Government applied for the extradition of Lau Pun on the charge that while armed with offensive weapons, and in the company of other persons not in custody, he feloniously did assault and put in bodily fear and danger of his life, one Lui Kwong, and further feloniously did steal 850 in money, one clock and a certain quantity of clothing from the said Lui Kwong on January last in the province of Kwangtung. Empire of China.

In outlining the case, Mr. Hursthouse stated that the charge was armed robbery. The prisoner in Japuary, of this year, in commany of a large gang or robbers, went the country house of Lui Kwong about oleven o'clock at night. The men were armed with knives and revolvers, and threatened the complainant if he did no declare where his money was. He endeavoured $1.60 from a shopkeeper at Shamsuipo. JAPANESE RED TAPE.

In the issue of the Hongkong Daily Press for May 31st there are two telegrams which were dispatched from Kobe on May 29th and having been purposely delayed in order that the report sent by the Japanese Government to the Consulate should arrive first. The news in the telegrams was merely a forecast of the official iintelligence and, appearing side side with the official dispatch, were to intents and purposes valueless. It would be interesting to know exactly what right the messages. There was nothing whatever in them to which the most experienced Consor the messages that their time and money should thus be wasted. If a telegram is of such should be informed, and if it is "publishable" it should be forwarded without delay .- Japan Chronicle.

The parties in the case were as follows:-Lam Tung, plaintiff; F. J. Badeley (Captain Superintendent of Police), defendant; and the Nam Loong firm, of Saigon, claimants. Mr. H. E. Pollock, K.C., instructed by Mr. Dixon (Mr. John Hasting's office), appeared for the plaintill, and Mr. H. N. Ferrers, instructed by Mr. J. Hay (Messrs. Johnson, Stokes & Master), for the claimants.

Mr. Pol'ook having closed the case for the plaintiff, Mr. Forrers, provious to calling witnesses, on behalf of the chimants, addressed the Court. The case was adjourned, it now remaining for Mr. Ferrers to close his case for the claimants, and Mr. Pollock, in conclusion, to again address the Court for the plaintiff.

COARESPONDENCE.

NORWAY: MORE INTERESTING INFORMATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." Sin, -The Daily Press has been kind enough to open its valuable columns to a discussion about Scandinavian affairs, and I want to express my gratitude as well for this privilege as for the many compliments paid to Norway and the Norwagians in your very interesting leader of the 19th inst.

There are, however, still some points, which I take the liberty to comment upon. In reading your article at dawned upon me how well nigh impossible it is for a foreigner to enter into the sentiments, which move the entire-Norwegian nation, men and women, at the present time. It was wrong on my part to class as "ignorance" a divergence of opinion, which even the best books of reference fail to enlighten the non-Scandinavian world upon.

A nation worthy of the consideration shown by the Daily Press does not rise, one and all, to sever its connection with another country without something being fundamentally wrong in the partnership. The Bill of Separation was passed unanimously in the Norwegian Parliamont, backed by the entire people.

The Union had become a veritable yoke, unbearable for a high-spirited and independent nation. For many years our best energies have been dissiputed in a fruitless struggle for the Equality which, according to our constitution of 1814, should be ours. A continuance of the Union seemed like a lasting nightmare, and we | took the last step, that of Disunion, prepared for all contingencies.

I venture to doubt that the Union has been detrimental to our interests, politically, under an aggress've policy against the Scandinavian Peninsula, we would of necessity have fought, together without a Union. Under the strained relations, caused by the Union, such a corporation would have been considerably impeded.

If "Russia resumes her old policy." there will be no other choice than co-operation. Who but Dr. Sven Hedin (in his articles) thinks that Sweden can afford to sit quietly watching Norway fighting the "Muscovite Bear," when her own most vital interests will thereby be most seriously jeopardized?

To quote the Review of Reviews : "The fact is, the swedes are making use of the Russians as a useful bogey to scare the Norwegians into submission."

Do not believe that my " brethren in Norway and I" are unaware of the fact that Union is strength, but without the slightest affinity all cohesion is liable to be unnatural.

I again assert that no comparison can be made between the national characters of the two peoples. Sweden has a nobility; in Norway the the only country which has forever done away with that old-fashioned institution. In Sweden you may still hear the peasantry address the landed proprietors as "gracious patrons," while in the farming districts of Norway now, as ever, low and high are addressed "thou." The "onechamber system." the extensive universal suffrage, right of voting for women in municipal affairs, and our whole social life, bring home to anyone, that in no country, not even America, has the true and healthy democracy a firmer root than in Norway.

Imperialism is a growing tendency in this age of great combinations and gigantic trusts, and no wonder that the world is astonished at seeing a country pulling in an opposite direction. I am a staunch Scandin avian myself, althou, h primarily a Norwegian, but I perceive no means of promoting this great Scandinavian idea at present. The "National Ecandinavian Society" has, however, done some good, for, wherever representatives of two of the three nations are together at banquets, its idea makes the subject of splendid toasts, and is thus highly conducive to an all-round congeniality. . The present crisis in the consular question forms one of the most striking instances of Swedish breaches of faith towards Norway, and I will briefly sum up the situation.

The separation of consulates had been question in Norway for a number of years, when the Swedish government in 1902 was invited to are-opening of negotiations. A combined Consalar committee consisting of four men, two Norwagiaus and two Swedes (one of whom was Baron Bildt, Ambassador for Sweden and Norway in London) was appointed, and submitted in July of the same year an unanimous report to their governments, a summary of which follows: "Partly for practical and partly also for formal reasons, the committee has started from the inference that the separate arrangement is to be carried through in this way, that either State obtains its separate consular service, with separate Norwegian consuls subordinated exclusively to Norwegian authority and Swedish separate consuls subordinated exclusively to Swedish authority."

relations between the two countries were better than ever during the Union, and, we were looking forward to a satisfactory sattlement with great expectations. In the beginning of the present year we were offered separate consulates, but the terms were so humiliating that no independent State could accept them, the main objection being that our consuls were to be controlled by the Swedish Foreign Minister (always a Swede). We then insisted upon immediate action, passed the Bill about separate consuls in our Parliament, and submitted the same to the King of Norway for sanction, but also he failed us, and separation became

It was Sweyn of Denmark, who defeated Olaf I. in 1000, and Norway was not divided between Denmark and Sweden as stated by the Daily Press. Norway remained under Denmark till 1015-for 15 years-when Olaf the Snint delivered the country from its foreign conquerors. Sweyn, it may be remembered, was Canute the Great's father, and later on commenced the conquest of England.

Norway was not conquered by Sweden in 1814, as "Svensk" declares, so his "accepted facts" are rather weak-kneed. Just look at his article, and anyone can find a great deal of that Swedish arrogance, which we Norwegians now prefer to dispense with. Our opposition saved us from becoming a province of Sweden, as the Powers the conditions which have prevailed, it was had willed it, and we joined a Union founded on worse than useless. If Russia had commenced absolute equality. Sweden's later endeavours to usurp power does not subvert that agreement.

I have fulled to see that Norway is the weaker partner except numerically, and would be obliged to have pointed out when and where we were defeated by Sweden.

Norway has launched upon a new era in her history, which I hope will result in success and. may he, that from the independent and separate Norway will once emanate an agitation, which will lead to a United Scandinavia.

THE COTTON BOOM.

STAPLE CHEAP: YARN DEARER. The chief factor that has brought about the present prosperous condition of the cotton. spinning business is to be attributed, of course to the decline in the quotations of raw cotton. During 1902 and 1903, says the Jiji Shimpe, the price of raw cotton was exceedingly high, American cotton being quoted at more than 50 you per picul and Indian cotton over 40 yen, During last year, however, the price suddenly

But not only has the cost of production cotton yarn been affected by fact, but the price of yarn has actually owing to the increased demand North China where the purchasing power of the people has been considerably augmented, no doubt, as the result of the money spent by the contending armies there. Moreover China had been buying less yarn than usual during the past few years and is now evidently buying a larger quantity to make up for the shortage in previous years. Not only in China but in Japan also the demand for cotton fabrics and yarn has greatly increased since about the time of the Mukden battle, resulting in the anomaly of the price of yarn being forced up while that of raw cotton has gone down.

Although yarn has considerably advanced in price as compared with the quotations prevailing in the immediate past, it is by no means an exceptional price, and consequently it can hardly be regarded as a temporary phenomenon.

Again, the present quotation for raw cotton, which rules between Y20 and Y30, is a reason- We congratulate "Globetrofter" on his | able figure, and it is improbable the nigh prices record effort, which we would like to see future of 1902-3 will occur again under ordinary

Paradoxical it As to the historical facts now called in question | may seem, yet it is true that the fluctuations in Nerwegian historiaus may well differ. cotton are more regulated by the abundance their causes, though in the case of such a longand evidently swedish and Norwegian students | continued high price as that which prevailed during the past few years it will undoubtedly have the effect of checking the demind for cotton yara and fabrics. Two-thirds of the output of yarn and cotton goods in Japan are for domestic consumption, and the spinners are often thrown into great distress quite irrespective of prices of raw cotton, so that the present state of unexpected prosperity in the yarn trade must have come to the spinners in the nature of an agreeable surprise.

If the present thriving state of the business continues for a certain length of time, it is probable that the number of spindles will be increased by extension or the establishment of new mills, and thus the existing factories will accruing from the business. But this will not occur for some time to come, though it is likely that the project of buying up the Ping an and Shanghai mills, which has been held in abayance, will be resuscitated. Whatever projects may be cherished by some mills to increase the number of spindles an extension on any large scale or new enterprises will not taxe place until the present prosperity has been maintained for some months. Even then the establishment of new mills by inexperienced men, as occurred after the Japan-China War, is not likely to be repeated, but the expansion will be confined to the enlargement of business by existing undertakings.

"Several thoughtful and worthy Americans have often remarked to me that it seemed to be an unwise and premature policy to celebrate publicly here the birthday of American liberty when we were trying to induce the Filipine, people, for their own good, to forget all about proposed independence for themselves.

"If they could understand the distinction so clearly made by the historian, Parkman, in his discussion of the cruses of the loss of Canada to France, and its acquisition by Great Britain it . would enlighten them much. Parkman first quotes a French writer who tries to explain the matter in this wise : "There must have been a worm grawing the root of the tree that had been transplanted into so rich a soil to make it wither instead of grow. What it needed was the air of liberty.

JOINT STOCK SHARES.

Messes. Vernon & Smyth say in their weekly share report dated Hongkong, 23rd June, 1905. -With the exception of a demand for Banks, China Traders and Ranbs at a higher rate than quoted last week, and for Docks, at the reduced rate of $192, the market has continued to be a selling one, and rates generally have further declined, although not to any great extent. The continued tightness of money among the Chinese is one of the chief factors in the dulness we have still to report.

BANKS. - Hongkong and Shanghais have further improved to $8071 with buyers, after an unsatisfied small demand at $805. Shares appear to be very scarce and the few which are now held in China are nearly all in the hands of investors; shares on the China Register have for some time past been gradually going into the hands of home investors, and the process appears to be still proceeding. The latest London quotation by Reuter is £84, 10s, 9d. Murket closes firm. Nationals remain unchanged and without business.

MARINE INSURANCES. -- Unions have been placed in small lots at 3695 and $6925, and an exceptionally small sale has been effected at $607; for August delivery. Cantons have ruled very quiet, and with pressure from Chinese holders, a forced sale has been made at $3124; market closes steady at $3174. China Traders. With a continuation of the demand at $65, and in the absence of forthcoming shares, the market gradually improved to $70 with small sales; the demand however at time of closing is still greater than the supply, and the rate looks as though it are many vague rumours for the sudden favour extended to this stock; but if there is any exceptional reason, byond the likelihood of a If you suffer from any disease due to an impure | better result of the working of the Company Sou should test the value of Carke's Blood Mixture, secret is well kept, and nothing is known to the mun in the street. North Chinas and Yangtszes remain unchanged and without business.

FIRE INSURANCES .- Hougkongs have been placed at 8300, but no more are obtainable at that rate. Chinas are on offer at 387 but without business.

SHIPPING .- Hongkong, Canton and Macaos continue to find buyers at $27 and small sales have been effected at that rate. Indes have further declined to $100 with sales and sellers. Shanghai quotes Tis. 71 sellers. Douglases are procurable in a small way at $354 and Bhells at 22/. China and Manifa: have receded to $21 without sales, and Star Ferries remain with sellers at quotations.

REFINERIES.—China Sugars have changed bands at $215, closing with likely sellers at that rate. Luzons have receded to $31 without sales. MINING.-Raubs have advanced to $51 with buyers and no shares available, holders refusing to part now that prospects are reported brighter for the deep level borings. DOCKS, WHARVES, AND GODOWNS,-Hongkong and Whampoa Docks have been placed as low as $190 for the settlement, the sale in all probability being a forced one. Several buyers, however, came into the mark it at that rate and the rate gradually recovered to $192, at which shares could probably to placed at time of closing. Kowloon Wharres have been on offer at $95 without finding buyers, but at time of closing one or two s nall odd lots could be placed at that rate Farnhams have gone back to $158 in bhaughai, but are in demand at that. New Amoy Docks unchanged and without business.

LANDS, HOTELS AND BUILDINGS .- Hongkoug Lands, on the rumour of a $3 interim dividend, have further declined to $120 with sellers and no sales. Hotels have raied weak with soders at $143. Humphrays' have found buyers at 8123. Shanghai Lands have advanced to Tls. 121 with buyers.

COTTON MILLS .- No change or business to MISCELLANEOUS. - China Bornees have declined to $12 with sellers. Green Islands, Watsons and Electrics have changed hands at $264. $124 and $177 respectively. We have nothing else to report under this heading.
